Meet SEC reporting requirements with corporate performance graphs from Morningstar.

The Corporate Performance Graph allows investor relations officers, CFOs, treasurers, and controllers to meet the reporting requirement of the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission that mandates SEC-registered companies to include a company performance graph in their annual report, FORM 10-K, to their shareholders.

With the acquisition of Hemscott, Morningstar is now able to offer the company performance graph service. More than 1,000 major corporate clients have relied on Hemscott since the advent of the SEC ruling in 1992.

The Corporate Performance Graph presents a company's five-year cumulative total return (including dividend reinvestment) versus the return of its peer group index and against the overall market index. In addition to the chart, each client receives the underlying data points and the list of peer group companies as supporting documentation.

Market peer groups can be selected from several industry group classification systems, as indicated on the order form. You may also provide a list of companies and a custom peer group can be created for your company.
